

“Stories from Deep in the Heart”
Summer Institute for Teachers, Students & Administrators
July 6 - 10, 2015
AISD Science & Health Resource Center
305 N Bluff Dr Austin, TX 78745

High school and middle school teachers and administrators are invited to participate in Texas Folklife's 2015 Stories from Deep in the Heart Summer Institute, a one week intensive fellowship in audio documentary production with professional producers, journalists and cultural workers. Participants will be guided through production of short audio documentaries on themes related to folklife----family and community traditions. Participants must attend all sessions. Fellows will complete one audio story in groups during the program. The Stories from Deep in the Heart Summer Institute is part of an on-going series of workshops for teachers and students in the Austin area and Central Texas schools.

Finished projects may be among those selected for broadcast on KUT 90.5FM, Public Radio Exchange (www.prx.org), and other outlets.

Dates: Monday, July 6th - Friday July 10th, 8:30am – 4:00pm
(weekdays only / includes time on assignments)

Location: AISD Science & Health Resource Center 305 N Bluff Dr Austin, TX 78745
